Editorial Note

This is the nineteenth volume of collected papers of the Mediterranean Studies Group at Hitotsubashi University. Up to the twelfth volume, the series was called Studies in the Mediterranean World. Past and Present and many of the articles were written in Japanese. From the thirteenth volume, the title of the series, now composed of papers in European languages, was changed to Mediterranean World. Volumes are published every two or three years.

The Mediterranean Studies Group was first organized at Hitotsubashi University in 1973, in order to carry out interdisciplinary research on the Mediterranean world. At that time, few studies on the Mediterranean area were undertaken in Japan, in comparison with studies on other areas of the world. Since it was founded, the Mediterranean Studies Group has held monthly seminars, offered special lectures by both Japanese and non-Japanese scholars, and organized field surveys in the Mediterranean countries concerned. We are greatly indebted to the Japanese Ministry of Education, Science and Culture for a number of grants-in-aid which have enabled us to conduct these research activities and publish the series.

This volume contains some papers being based on the field researches by the members of the Mediterranean Studies Group under the title of “Micro-ecological Structure of the Mediterranean Islands: On Methods and Perspectives for the “Maritime Area” Studies.

Two overseas colleagues have contributed papers to this volume; they are collaborators with our group and participated in the 4th International Workshop, titled “Diversity and Connectivity in the Mediterranean World 2, held in 25-27 August, 2006 in Cairo, Egypt. To them we express our heartfelt thanks.
